

Mastitis Testing

The University of Georgia offers LIMITED free testing at this time. For further information, they requested that you email one of the contacts below. For a small sample, they try to perform this service at no charge, and for larger samples they can certainly perform the tests, however fees may apply.

At the February 2011 GDGBA Meeting, it was brought up that LSU has a free mastitis test at their labs. They have been contacted about this service, and it was HIGHLY recommended that we in Georgia work through our own University for these services. Steve Nickerson actually came to UGA from the lab at LSU.
